Local Relief Office Closed in Transfer

No Work Money Available for Remainder August

DISTRICT OFFICE

Three Employees Remain to Look After Local Work

The Randall County Relief office was closed Tuesday, and all employes checked out so far as the old set-up is concerned.

The new plan under WPA will be effective as soon as projects are approved for the county.

County Administrator H. S. Strain received a telegram Monday that no work would be allowed in this county during August. As a matter of fact, no work has been possible for the past two weeks owing to the lack of funds.

Under the new WPA plan three employes are retained in the local office:

Mrs. C. V. Sloan, case worker.

Mrs. A. C. Donnell, clerk.

H. S. Strain, commodity distributor.

Ike Parker has been transferred to the Amarillo office.

No money will be handled thru the local office.

All orders will be filled out of the district office at Amarillo.

Those on relief will be transferred to WPA rolls just as soon as some project is approved. Until this is done, no means has been provided for caring for these people.

Mr. Strain, former county administrator, states that the local office has only a little meat and milk for distribution. No indication was given this week as to what commodities will be sent for distribution.

While all authority was taken away from the county relief board several months ago, it is completely dropped from the present set-up.

Just when projects will be ready for WPA work, no one knows. The plans for Buffalo Courts have been remade several times in an attempt to have them conform with the new WPA plan. Plans on Fourth Avenue widening are being made, as well as plans for two miles on 8th Street south from the high school. All these projects are taking much more time than contemplated. No word has been received from the highway department as to how soon it will be able to use men on the widening program on Highway No. 9.

TWO CONTRACTORS

Regents Meeting Today to Finally Approve Contracts

Contracts were awarded Friday for the construction of the addition to Cousins Hall, and the erection of ten cottages for light housekeeping on the campus of W. T.

J. B. Maxie of Lubbock received the bid on the cottages at $33,379.89. This amount is a little over the estimate of PWA for the buildings, but it is indicated that the government will appropriate an additional sum for the buildings. Mr. Maxey is the contractor on Stafford Hall.

C. S. Lambie of Amarillo was awarded the contract for the addition to Cousins Hall at $57,400.

The bids were taken to Alpine Tuesday by Dr. J. A. Hill where the Board of Regents will finally pass upon them and start the process of completing final plans for the building.

Senator R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth and John E. Hill of Amarillo, members of the Board of Regents, were here at the opening of the bids Friday.

Work cannot possibly start on these projects in less than 60 to 90 days stated Dr. Hill. It took about that long to start work on Stafford Hall after the bids were opened.

These two projects are being handled with PWA funds.

Two other PWA projects have been approved for W. T. It is believed that the swimming pool and

Prohibition Rally on the Court House Lawn Next Tuesday

Interest in the coming special election on August 24th has greatly increased as a result of the meetings held the past week by the prohibition forces who oppose repeal of constitutional prohibition.

Next Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. H. D. Tucker of Pampa will address all voters on the court house lawn. Mr. Tucker is a brilliant speaker and has been holding a large number of meetings over the Plains. W. A. Warren, county chairman, urges that all voters hear Mr. Tucker at that time.

Meetings the past week were held at the Park and Zita school houses, and a union meeting of the churches was held Sunday night at the Baptist church.

Another meeting is scheduled for the Jowell school next Saturday night.

BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS FOR OFFICE

Selection of Site to Be Made in Short Time

COST YET UNKNOWN

Jones and Connally Wire That Building Sure

Canyon will receive a new postoffice building under the terms of the deficiency appropriation bill passed last week by Congress and signed Monday by President Roosevelt.

Congressman Marvin Jones wrote the News last week that the bill as pending would likely provide for the building if signed by the President. A telegram was received Tuesday morning that the bill was signed and that places to receive postoffice buildings would be announced at once.

A telegram yesterday from Senator Connally verified the fact that the building was assured for Canyon.

Canyon and Quanah were granted buildings Tuesday. The building for Canyon is the result of work started several months ago through Congressman Jones and Senator Tom Connally. As a result of much information being filed in Washington supporting the needs of Canyon for a new postoffice building, an inspector from the postoffice department came to Canyon and took with him a great amount of data which was forwarded to Washington.

Several locations for the new building were selected by the local committee which took options on the sites, and these will be presented to the treasury department for final selection. At the time of the inspection some weeks ago, no sites were considered, since there was considered to be several acceptable ones from the standpoint of the government.

Judging from the appropriation given other towns about the size of Canyon, it is likely that approximately $60,000 will be set aside for the building in Canyon. Quanah was granted $80,000.

Citizens of Canyon are delighted over the prospects of the new building. In regular channels, the erection of a postoffice usually takes several years, but since the appropriation for the new office here is included in a direct appropriation it is believed that work may be started within a few months. In the case of Quanah, recommendations were made four years ago, but the appropriation could not be secured.

Man Badly Injured As Dynamite Explodes in Quarry

W. A. Walton was badly injured Friday afternoon at the rock quarry west of Canyon. He is driller for the charges of dynamite and before leaving for lunch decided the hole on which he was working for a charge was not sufficiently deep.

Other men of the crew placed the charge of dynamite in the hole after Walton left, but did not set it off. Upon returning, Walton started work again with his compressed air drill. The dynamite was exploded, tearing away his clothing, and filling his body with rock and gravel as completely as if he had been the victim of a gun shot. Probably the only thing that saved his life was the fact that the explosion threw his head backward and none of the rock hit his face.

Walton is in an Amarillo hospital and will recover.

PANHANDLE MEMBER PRESS ASSOCIATION

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

The News stated last week that the more we studied the seven constitutional amendments, the more inclined we were to vote against all of them on August 24th. But it is silly to make the statement that you are "agin" amending the state constitution without adequate reasons. We shall therefore, briefly submit these reasons:

No. 1. The Old Age Pension would tax the people of Texas something like $42,000,000 annually, increasing the tax rate fifty percent. There are no restrictions in the amendment, allowing a pension to every person who has reached 65 years, regardless of his financial condition. While the old age pension is a good thing for the unfortunate class, and those who are unable to take care of themselves, the wording of this amendment is such as to let the bars down to all who have reached that age, regardless of their financial condition.

Furthermore, the legislature has refused for years to increase taxes in order to wipe out the mounting deficit of the general fund, which promises to reach $15,000,000 by the end of this year. To throw another forty million dollar burden upon the tax payers at this time is too much.

However, The News is not deceived in this matter of hard headed financing, and we shall not be surprised to see this amendment carry. Any time the people believe they are getting something for nothing from the government, too many refuse to look the financial side squarely in the face.

No. 2 would make it possible to commit persons in the insane hospitals without trial. No doubt there are many good features in connection with this amendment. Perhaps many a family would willingly send away a member for treatment if they did not have to go through trial to declare that one insane.

While there are good arguments in favor of the amendment, grave dangers are in store for many a person in the state if the amendment is approved. Many who have a little money would be the victim of relatives who would like to get hold of this cash. Many an eccentric person will be railroaded to the asylum on the insane theory.

There are too many dangers in connection with this amendment.

No. 3 is the amendment regarding the repeal of constitutional prohibition. This amendment carries a falsehood in its very wording. It was written by the wets and says, "prohibiting the open saloon." As a matter of fact, hundreds of saloons are running wide open in Texas today while prohibition is the constitutional law. The saloons are operated by wets, not drys. The wets refuse to obey the state constitution at the present time. Who believes that they will obey the law if the constitutional amendment is repealed? Saloons will open by the thousands all over Texas, and every sort of liquor will be sold by these bars.

We are not deceived as to the violation of the liquor laws in Texas, but there is absolutely no chance for improvement if prohibition is repealed.

The wets promised that taxes would be reduced; drinking would be less; crime would diminish; that the depression would end, if national prohibition was repealed.

The records show just the opposite. It takes more taxes to maintain a larger number of men to attempt to enforce the laws under present conditions than under prohibition; crime, racketeers and bootleggers have not been reduced; drinking has increased; accidents have greatly increased on the highways.

The way to teach temperance to the American people most certainly is not to increase the available supply of liquor in this nation. No prohibitionist is satisfied with the way things are being run, but it will not improve the situation to throw the gates wide open and legalize the sale of liquor on top of the activities of the bootlegger who will continue his business.

No. 4 would allow the legislature to submit constitutional amendments at special sessions. By all means this should not be approved by the people. Every regular session of the legislature has a flood of constitutional amendments. The past session submitted seven for the Aug. 24th election and submitted six for the general election next year. More than 50 proposals were made of which the thirteen were finally selected. There was not a single emergency in the entire lot which justified the million dollars necessary to hold this election.

The excuse for this amendment was that relief money will run out next year and it is necessary for the legislature to submit another constitutional amendment to vote more relief bonds. This is a very flimsy excuse. The legislature in regular session could have passed this provision to the people to be voted upon this year, or next year during the general election.

To allow the submission of constitutional amendments at special sessions will cost the people several million dollars annually in wasteful wrangling in the legislature and cost of submitting unnecessary measures to the people.

No. 5 would allow courts to place defendants on probation. The suspended sentence is badly abused, and now to allow the courts power to grant probation would make it next to impossible to protect society from the increasing criminal class.

Governors of Texas have plead with the people to limit or repeal the power of pardon because of the high pressure brought upon the chief executive of friends of the criminal. The same pressure will be brought to bear upon local courts, who are closer to the people and therefore subject to great pressure from the local voters.

We do not believe that a single judge in Texas would desire this power because of the pressure that will be brought to bear upon him by misguided people.

No. 6 would repeal the fee system in counties of 20,000 population and more. While we favor the repeal of the fee system, we resent the continued relection upon the smaller counties of the state that they should continue to operate under the fee system. This amendment leaves the question of fees or salaries in the counties with less than 20,000 population with the commissioners court. Furthermore, the limiting of salaries by the legislature six years ago has cured much of this evil.

The News takes the position that the fee system should be abolished in every county in the state; that the commissioners should not be embarrassed to the extent of having to decide, making a hogepoge among the smaller counties, some with the fee system, some with the salary system. The amendment should be rejected and the legislature resubmit a total abolition of the fee system in every county of the setate.

No. 7 provides for free text books in all schools. That may sound reasonable until you consider the fact that those who send their children to private or church schools do so because they do not wish to patronize the public schools. The state furnishes certain functions to the people who wish to take advantage of them. Those who do not wish to use these advantages and set up other arrangements are free to do so at their own expense.

If free text books are furnished to private schools, the next step will be to give the school apportionment to such private schools.

A system of municipal colleges has started in Texas. The state has nothing to do with them so far as finances are concerned, but the movement started recently to make appropriation for such municipal colleges which were not started by sanction of the state.

The whole question of education is involved in this opening wedge of making a raid upon the public school fund for private and church schools. If the public school system were not adequate, the question would be entirely different.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce approves this amendment because the officers are of the opinion that a change may be made in the scholastic apportionment basing it upon school attendance rather than per capita. The argument is made that West Texas would profit by such an arrangement. The West Texas Chamber is kidding itself in this declaration. East Texas controls the legislature and continuously refuses to redistrict the legislature in order to give West Texas adequate representation. There is no chance of West Texas to profit by the terms of this amendment, but the public schools will stand a chance to lose a very large sum of money in the deal.

Again we repeat, The News does not feel like an old foggy in taking a stand against these amendments. We do not believe that the people are justified in adopting them, and we shall therefore cast our vote against the entire list. Incidentally, we happen to be in the class of a majority of the newspapers of the state who are opposing all the amendments.

One amendment we would gladly support—calling a constitutional convention for which the highest type men of Texas were chosen to rewrite the constitution. This method would save the taxpayers much money over the patch work procedure through which we go every two years by these amendments.

During the maneuvers all street lights and automobile headlights were extinguished. OLD-FASHIONED SIMPLICITY

TELEPHONE SERVICE in this country is modern. It leads the world. Yet there is an old-fashioned simplicity about the Bell System. This applies to capital structure and financial methods as well as to the nationwide plan of decentralized operation under centralized control.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has only one class of stock and that stock is not watered.

It has 675,000 stockholders living in every corner of the land. Their average holding is twenty-eight shares. No individual or organization owns as much as one per cent of the stock. There are no secret reserves or hidden assets.

This structure is not of recent origin, but dates back many years to the early days of the telephone. It has lived on because it is right and in the best interest of the public. It has been fundamental in making the Bell System a distinctive American business.

In the Bell System, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company is the parent company, and operates the long distance lines connecting the 24 regional Bell companies. Bell Laboratories carries on the research work; Western Electric manufactures, purchases, and distributes.

Without this specialized organization back of the men and women of the Southwestern Bell, telephone service might be possible. But it could not be service as uniformly good, as quietly accurate, as far reaching, and as inexpensive as the service you know today.

ACTIVITIES OF RANDALL H. D. CLUB WOMEN

Ripe tomatoes were gathered within 75 days after planting by Mrs. L. B. Hammond, farm food supply demonstrator of the Lakeside Home Demonstration Club. Bone meal was used in setting out the plants about May 15.

The holes for the tomato plants were dug and rags or corn cobs palced in the holes and about two table spoons of bone meal was sprinkled into each hole, then this was well soaked with water and the tomato plants set out in the usual way.

From 280 feet of English peas, Mrs. H. R. Jones, co-operator of the Lakeside Home Demonstration Club has left 80 feet for seed, canned 34 pints from two pickings and has gathered not less than 18 gallons for family and friends.

"The rural work center was one of the most interesting places on the campus at A. & M. during the Farmer's Short Course," says Mrs. Roy Campbell. It was a three room cabin made of logs cut from nearby trees.

In the kitchen every convenience for canning is installed and arranged so groups from different communities may go there and do their canning.

Another room was used for giving demonstrations on hand made buttons, buckles and other articles from wood; making woven purses and baskets; pictures and frames and mattress making.

Hooked rugs were being made in the third room, it was also used as an exhibit room, displaying beautiful pieces of furniture and other handicrafts made there.

Outside under a large tree, chairs were being made, leather bottoms were put in some. They also showed different uses of leather in the home and explained how hides may be tanned in the home.

Under an arbor syrup was being made from products raised there.

People in that section are privileged to take their raw materials to the work center and use the equipment there for making any article possible to be made by hand.

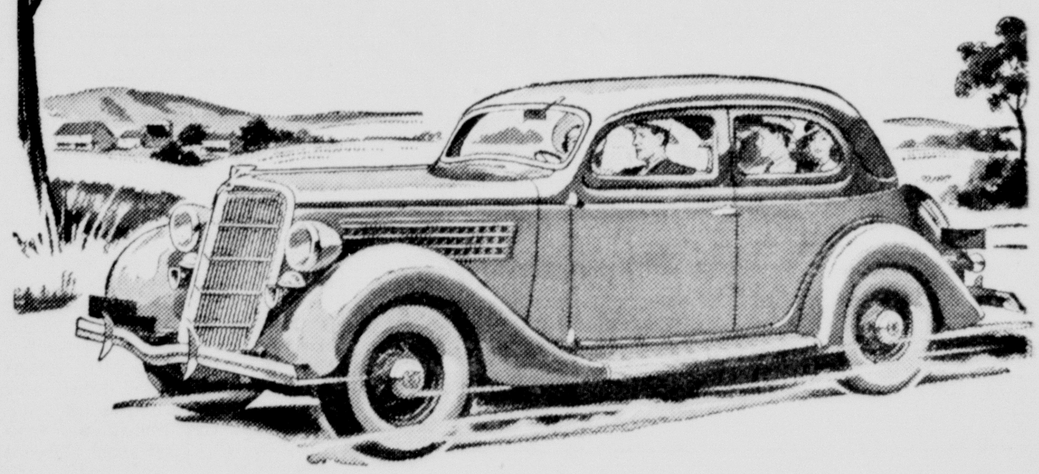
YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V·8



You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip — to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

Experiment At Randall Succeeds

Randall Hall, the Panhandle's largest scale experiment in co-operative living, will enter its third year on Sept. 18, with Mrs. W. L. Acker in charge of the 100 girls who will gather there to live and work and study during the long session of the West Texas State Teachers College.

The summer of 1933 looked pretty hopeless to the young people of northwest Texas who wanted to go to college, and equally unfavorable to college officials who felt that a drouth already three years long would certainly cut attendance painfully. It was then that Dr. J. A. Hill and his administrative helpers decided to start a co-operative home in which girls selected from all over the region would be allowed to try working together to make a home for themselves and at the same time go to college on the money their slim wheat-butter-eggs-cotton purses contained. An hour a day and thirteen dollars a month was the price.

Girls Do Own Work

That year 106 girls did the thirty-seven different tasks which they and their supervisor, Miss Miltia Hill, found were necessary each day to run a good home.

The cooking, the dusting, the window washing and curtain-dying, the sweeping and wastepaper basket emptying, the table setting, the flower arranging, the plans for open house and for the weekly inspirational meeting, the dish-washing, and all the 101 little things were done on schedule by the girls themselves. Only a supervising cook was employed on a full time basis.

MISS SARAH MILTIA HILL

The girls did it and liked it; many of them brought canned goods, hams, home cured bacon, butter and other supplies from their homes to pay half of each month's room and board.

Hold "Open House"

Miss Hill believed that a girl's college life should be a judicious mixture of work, study, vigorous play and social life, both informal and formal. So the open house nights, the formal dinners, and occasions when honored guests were entertained were important at Randall Co-operative Home.

At the end of the year no girl dreaded the array of silver at a banquet, or was in doubt as to procedure of a reception. On the other hand every girl had a new appreciation of the work and care necessary to have breakfast at exactly 7:15 each morning, and knew how tiresome was the job of preparing potatoes or roasting ears for 100 hungry people.

Girls Carefully Chosen

The second year of the co-operative home opened with the girls more carefully chosen, and with a good percentage of them already the same ones who had lived there in 1933-'34. Things were easier, and happier for everybody, though each new fad and each succeeding month brought new problems just as in any household.

Through the efforts of the members of the great family, which came from forty different counties, the home was made more beautiful than it had been in years before. Bright hangings, water color pictures, the magazines every girl dearly loves, were a part of the picture, and visitors were delighted with the sight which greeted them when the Randall Hall girls served tea, their faces lighted by the enhancing glow of tall candles.

Learn to Save Money

Financially too, the co-operative plan has been a success. Like every other house, the corners had to be watched and every possible small saving effected. But essentials to healthful and happy living were not sacrificed.

There was no deficit to be made up, so the girls could respect themselves for their ability to live within their incomes.

Mrs. Acker in Charge

The girls of the 1935-'36 session will not have the guidance of Miss Miltia Hill, for she will spend the year in New York City, doing graduate study. In her place will be Mrs. W. L. Acker who has had experience as a dormitory director on another teachers college campus and has been a sorority housemother at the University of Texas.

Already she knows many college students, for she directed Randall Hall during two summer sessions. She knows the troubles and joys of college girls and how to help them grow into useful womanhood. With wide experience and knowledge and an educated heart she is expected to direct Randall Co-operative Home so the traditions which have been established will be strengthened, and the list of women who will view the rambling building with affection will grow longer each year.

On Sept. 18, Randall's new family will arrive, freshmen, seniors, sophomores, juniors, and graduate students. They will not come in, like summer vacationists, to disorder and accumulated dust, but to a home freshly cleaned, and Mrs. Acker's motherly welcome. Co-operative living is looking up.

Support of Teachers College Is Urged by Amarillo C. of C.

A lengthy resolution in which it is recommended that Amarilloans give their support to the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon and that the name of the institution be changed to "West Texas State College" was passed there yesterday with the unanimous approval of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

The resolution was presented by Floyd Studer and seconded by Norris Ewing, directors, at the organization's bi-monthly luncheon.

Russell Comments

Referring to the school as one of "Amarillo's valuable assets," the resolution reads:

"We commend this splendid institution to those of our citizens who have young people seeking the benefits of higher education. * * * We see in a closer integration between our own municipal educational system and the Canyon institution an improvement of both."

In commenting on the resolution, Horace Russell, member of the chamber of commerce board, said:

"From Amarillo's standpoint, the support and encouragement to be given the college at Canyon will enable it to enjoy the development already within its power.

Belongs to Panhandle

"The school at Canyon doesn't belong to Amarillo—it belongs to the whole Panhandle area, except to the extent that Amarillo is a big and important part of the region.

"We of Amarillo can, by indifference and short-sightedness, impair its usefulness. Or we, by simply opening our eyes and appreciating our opportunities, can help it to a greater usefulness than it has yet known.

"The friendship the Canyon college enjoys is closely knit all over the Panhandle. It is closely associated with every West Texas enterprise. The assistance and support given it by Amarillo will have the effect of creating friendship for this city in the territory it serves.

Resolution In Full

In full the resolution reads:

To the People of Amarillo:

In view of Amarillo's responsibility as one of the most important communities of Northwest Texas and her consequent need of the benefits of a senior institution of higher learning of the first class, and in view of the exceptional opportunity that lies close at hand if we will but utilize it, the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce has heartily enacted the following resolutions and now asks our citizens generally to approve same and give full support to a program in keeping therewith.

WHEREAS the college at Canyon is as near to Amarillo in point of time as S. M. U. is to Dallas or T. C. U. is to Fort Worth and is therefore, for all practical purposes, easily accessible to all of our people, and

WHEREAS it is now recognized by college accrediting agencies as well as by the general public as a senior college of the first class, giving instruction in twenty departments, extending five years beyond high school, and conferring appropriate degrees, and

WHEREAS its physical plant represents an investment of approximately $1,500,000 and is now undergoing material expansion thru the assistance of the Federal Government, and

WHEREAS said college has already made extensive and valuable contribution to the business and cultural life of Amarillo, there being hundreds of its ex-students in the commercial and professional life of the city, and more than 100 of our youth annually in attendance at the Canyon school, and

WHEREAS a faculty of more than 60 exceptionally capable instructors and a student enrollment during each 12 months of more than 2,000 individuals make the Canyon College an institution of major importance.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce

(1) That we point with pride to the West Texas State Teachers College and count it one of Amarillo's valuable assets;

(2) That we commend this splendid institution to those of our citizens who have young people seeking the benefits of higher education;

(3) That we make the development of the school at Canyon a part of our own program, and seek to conserve its interests and promote its welfare in every legitimate way;

(4) That the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce hereby invites the administration and governing board of the West Texas State Teachers College to offer the facilities of that institution to the youth of our city in such measure and manner as they may see fit.

(5) That we see in a closer integration between our own municipal educational system and the Canyon institution an improvement of both.

(6) Whereas the name of the Canyon institution—"West Texas State Teachers College"—in our opinion, obscures the fact that this is a college of general training and not merely of teachers' professional training; and,

(7) Whereas, a change in name as we suggest would not in any way whatever detract from the splendid usefulness of this institution in attracting and serving students in this section, therefore,

We respectfully suggest that the name of the college at Canyon be changed to West Texas State College. We urge that this is the rightful name of the college, that it represents in name what the college has always been in fact, and that it fosters much wider use by students in this section of facilities already developed and available in the college.

(8) That we beg to assure the people of the city of Canyon that we are interested in building a bigger and better college there with the double objective of contributing to the welfare of both communities. The time is now at hand, if never before, when the two cities should find and develop their many mutual interests, and these resolutions constitute our first formal effort in this direction.

Methodists Lead Church Count By One Member

The methodist church and the Baptist church of Canyon have been rivals for several years as to the church affiliations of students in the College.

During the summer term the two churches have had equal enrollments until a few days ago when a new student enrolled and brought the Methodist enrollment above the other churches of Canyon.

Statistics concerning the church affiliation of students of the 1934-'35 regular session were:

Church	men	women	total
Methodist	139	230	369
Baptist	146	212	358
Church of Christ	48	50	98
Presbyterian	36	47	83
Christian	18	46	64
Episcopal	4	4	8
Catholic	3	4	7
Congregational	2	2	4
Nazarene	1	2	3
Church of God	1	1	2
Lutheran	1	1	2
Assembly of God	1		1
Church of the Brethern	0	1	1
Menonite	0	1	1
Pentecostal	0	1	1
No preference	24	6	30
Totals	425	608	1033

The rivalry was not quite so close in the regular session of 1931-32 for there was 306 Methodists, 247 Baptists, 73 Church of Christ members, and 56 Episcopalians.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McElroy returned Friday from a fishing trip at Lake City, Colorado.

Single Human Hair Is Important Clew to This Laboratory Sleuth

SPLITTING hairs is no mere bromide to Frank Gompert of Los Angeles. He does it for a living.

Chief of the sheriff's criminological laboratory there, Gompert solves crimes by the scientific study of hair.

A wisp of hair, found at the scene of a crime, becomes an important clew to Gompert, with his powerful microscope. To him, hairs are like fingerprints. They tell a story; he records it—sometimes a story criminals cannot contradict.

Scientific "hair splitters" have solved many sensational cases, according to Gompert. He cites one instance. A young woman was found murdered recently in the midwest, her throat cut. There were no clews. However, suspicion finally rested on an old woman who lived nearby, alone. Officers found a large wooden-handled butcher knife in her home.

"Four hairs were discovered, caught between the blade and the handle," Gompert went on. "The suspect said she had been killing rabbits. A laboratory test, however, proved the hairs were neither human nor rabbit specimens; instead, they were fox hair.

"The victim, incidentally, had been wearing a fox fur collar at the time of her death. Confronted with this evidence, the woman confessed the crime."

COMPARING hairs is Gompert's chief task. He explains the delicate operation. The hair, it seems, is imbedded in a paraffin block, which is then fed into a cutting machine. The hair emerges in 40 almost invisible strands, each about 4/1000ths of an inch thick. Under a powerful microscope, one or more of these strands is studied.

"A hair is divided into three sections," explains Gompert, "each unlike its neighbor." One, scale-covered, is known as the cuticle; another the cortex; and the third, or center section, is the medulla.

The cuticle scales are measured, as is the width of the hair. The cortex tells the strength of hair pigments. The medulla imparts the probable age of the person, and his condition of health.

All this information is worked into a formula which, if it compares favorably with figures obtained similarly from the strand of hair to be compared, reveals that the hairs are almost surely from the same head.

ACCORDING to Gompert, there are 21,870 kinds of human hair. And there are countless different colors, from lightest yellow to darkest brown. But no person can claim having black hair, he contends.

Hair will not reveal a person's sex, it seems, but it will his approximate age. The medullary canal, through which food is conveyed to each hair, is narrow in a young person, and grows wider with age, Gompert points out.

Animals easily are identified by the hair, Gompert says. Each has individual characteristics.

"In dog hair, the medullary canal cells are round in a single row. In rabbit hair, there are two to eight rows of cells, each resembling an ear of corn. And in cat hair, the cells are plate shaped."

The revelations of Gompert, 41-year-old New Yorker, soldier of fortune and one-time detective, will startle those who thought a hair told but one story; that of approaching baldness.

Meyers Chosen Managers For Stafford Hall

Both Have Taken Active Part in School Affairs

Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Meyer have been chosen managers of Stafford Hall, the boys' dormitory now under construction, which will be ready for occupancy Sept. 15.

Dr. Meyer, who came here two years ago from Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., is a professor in the Education department of the College. He was sponsor of the senior class of the 1935 winter session, and also of the summer graduates. Mrs. Meyer was elected sponsor of the Pi Omega club last year. Dr. and Mrs. Meyer organized and were sponsors of the Married Students club this summer.

Honors Latin Professor

The two story, red brick building named Stafford Hall in honor of a former Latin professor of the College, B. A. Stafford, is being constructed by J. B. Maxey of Lubbock.

The brick-laying is finished, the roof is nearing completion and work on the inside has begun.

Four types of floor material is to be used in the hall. T. M. B. mastic floor coverings is to be used in the bedrooms; the corridors are to be of asphalt tile blocks, alternating green and brown blocks with a mahogany border; floors of the social hall and lounge are of red oak; and the baths are to be covered with clay tile blocks. The stairway is to have a colored cement topping.

Decorations Are Finished

The walls are of a light colored plaster, except in the dining hall and social hall, which are to be papered. The ceiling will be decorated with run plaster and moldings.

Furniture has not been selected, but the architects, Rittenberry and Carder of Amarillo, will be in Canyon today to decide on the type of furniture to be used.

Nearly Thousand Apply To NYA

Nearly 1,000 boys and girls who want to go to college but do not have the money have applied to the West Texas State Teachers College for aid under the Federal government's National Youth Administration.

Only 103 students can be helped under this year's set-up. Nobody will receive a scholarship or loan, but the lucky ones will be paid an average of $15 a month for their part time work.

Help! . . . Police
"Yes sir, Phillips 66 helps the police. The radiators on our radio squad cars were boiling over like teakettles . . . and mileage per gallon was as low as a racketeer's forehead. But we found the culprit—gasoline that just wasn't suited for hot weather driving. Now, with Phillips 66 we're getting cool running, plenty power, and plenty more mileage. For real performance at low cost; this gas sure rates a gold star."

Security

STILL AWAITS THE SAVER

Repeated economic crises have not changed the primary rule that financial security is always attained through thrift, and the consistent saving of money. No other sure way has been found. The conservative, substantial citizen of means invariably is first of all a saver of money—after that he may employ many methods of acquiring a fortune, but he starts his career as a saver!

athletic field improvements will be put up for contract within a short time. The Home Economics cottage plan is running considerably over the estimated cost and the Board of Regents will decide today whether to ask for additional funds, or to withdraw this application and start with new plans.

change.

Tuesday morning D. E. Colp, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board, had telephoned from Austin stating that the change was possible owing to the demand for white men in the soil erosion work. Mr. Colp is accepting negro companies for park work, in view of the fact that each negro company comprised a larger number of men. The Palo Duro is called ideal for negro companies owing to its location 13 miles from town, and the fact that they are fitted for this class of construction work. The negroes who have been at the Palo Duro Park in the past have been the best workers, obedient in every phase of work and happy in the pursuit of their labors. The state park system now has more than a dozen negro companies, all of which are giving splendid service, according to Mr. Colp.

The new companies may start to arrive Monday, although no definite information has been received on this.

Changing the two white companies will take a number of families from Canyon since members of the companies have brought their families from various parts of the state.

Condron Talks on Italy-Ethiopian War Situation

S. H. Condron discussed the danger of war between Italy and Ethiopia Tuesday at the Rotary Club luncheon. He was introduced by Marion Bishir of the program committee.

The situation is one of national expansion, such as has been seen with England, France and Spain, stated Mr. Condron. During the 16th and 17th centuries these nations reached out to secure more land. Now the expansion is of commercial purposes, to secure markets.

Germany, Japan and Italy have followed the example of the three other nations in expansion.

Until 1870 Italy comprised a group of small states. After the forming of the nation, Italy made a guaranty to Ethiopia of independence. In 1928 Mussolini made concessions to secure trade. Internal troubles and development had kept Italy pretty much engaged during this period.

On Nov. 5, 1934, Italy sent out the news that Ethiopian soldiers had fired upon Italian soldiers, killing a number. A group of Englishmen saw this affair and gave the truth to the world that the Italian soldiers went five miles into Ethiopian territory and slaughtered a group of soldiers. Mussolini has demanded an apology and indemnity for this act from Ethiopia.

It seems to be the opinion of those familiar with the situation that Italy is almost in revolt against the dictator. The rights of the people have been removed. In order to keep the people's mind off of themselves Mussolini is playing his trump card in starting the war.

Mr. Condron stated that if the war gets under way, alliances will be formed, which may throw England and France to oppose each other. Germany will likely seek the popular side. Japan will proceed to take all of China that she wishes. Russia will be kept busy watching Japan.

The United States as a neutral will lose what little foreign market we have left, and will suffer as a result.

Visitors present were: J. D. Thompson, Jr., and Leroy White of Amarillo; Dr. Sloan Miller and Mr. Condron of Canyon.

Queen Ann Table to be Made From Old Mahogany Bar

Possibly one of the oldest bars of the old saloon days has rested in the barn of the George Bishop place east of town for several years. Mr. Bishop's mother secured the bar several years ago in Panhandle where it was in one of the early day saloons.
